The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Candy Industry (7/95) Snack Food (4/95) and Product Alert (9/19/94), in view of Booth ('011), Ingber ('905), Batchlet. ('144), Jackson ('925), and Schiller ('164) in view of St. Paul Pioneer Press Dispatch (7/16/89), Wichita Eagle (2/01/99), Stazo ('654) and Roskam ('301). The claims are also rejected employing Booth, Ingber, Batchlet, Jackson and Schiller first and the claims are also rejected employing Booth first as discussed in the Office action mailed (January 27, 2004). The claims are rejected for the reasons give in the Office action mailed January 27, 2004.

All of applicants' remarks filed May 26, 2004 have been fully and carefully considered but are not found to be convincing. Contrary to what has been urged, the Office action mailed January 27, 2004, fully and clearly details the reasoning behind the 35USC 103 rejection. The references are described as to what they teach and why the references are properly combinable. In view of the preponderance of the evidence, it would have been an obvious matter of design to simulate the shape and appearance of a real life tackle box employing conventional candy shaped to look like tackle and a box having a conventional tackle box appearance. This evidence, as fully detailed in the last Office action, includes a candy tackle box with candy having the appearance of tackle, other candy having the appearance of other real-life objects in containers having the appearance of those real-life boxes that the contents come in, etc.

Finally, applicants appear to question the number of references that have been applied. Patentability is not predicated on the number of references applied, but what the art taken as a whole teaches. See in this regard In re Gorman 18 USPQ 1886. Note too, that the Court pointed out that where teachings relied upon to show obviousness were repeated in a number of references, the conclusion of obviousness was strengthened.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
